The National Institutes of Health (NIH) is the nation’s primary funder of biomedical research, leading to advances in scientific knowledge, better health, and economic growth.

NIH Funding in New York

- $2.63B in total funding
- 5,448 grants and contracts
- $76.3M for workforce training and development grants, which help prepare the scientific leaders of the future
- $59.8M for 87 New York businesses, for research and development of technology with potential commercial applications
- 78.9K bioscience industry jobs in New York, which offer an average annual wage $22.1K higher than the total private sector (2018 TEConomy/BIO Report)

NIH Funding at Select Sites

- Columbia University and Medical Center: $505M
- ICahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai: $345M
- New York University and School of Medicine: $325M
- Cornell University and Weill Medical College: $246M
- State University of New York (across 14 campuses): $195M
- University of Rochester: $176M
- Albert Einstein College of Medicine: $173M
- Sloan Kettering Institute for Cancer Research: $160M
- Rockefeller University: $75.7M

NCI-Designated Cancer Centers

- 7 NCI-designated cancer centers

Learn more & join the conversation! FASEB.org/FundingFacts @FASEBorg @FASEB.org @FASEB